Federal Munitions Control Urged By Senate Group

ARMS SALES TO WARRING NATIONS HIT

Private Manufacturers Re-bucked in Committee's Recommendation

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(UP)—The senate munitions committee today denounced American private arms industry and asked the government to take into its own hands the multi-million dollar business of producing guns, warships and ammunition for the United States army and navy.

The recommendation was made to the senate by a majority of the committee in the first of several reports based on its searching two-year scrutiny of international traffic in arms.

Corrupt Methods Charged
The committee caustically rebuked American munitions manufacturers for corrupt methods of arms sales abroad, for opposing arms limitation, for high profits and for "a very considerable threat to peace" in "frightening" nations into a continued frantic expenditure for devices of warfare.

But the members split in the final showdown on the controversial issue of federal ownership of munitions plants.

Opposed to the four-member majority was a minority statement signed by three members, proposing "rigid and conclusive" munitions control but declaring complete nationalization was undesirable because it would "encourage armament rather than disarmament."

The majority report to the senate was signed by Chairman Gerald P. Nye, R., N. D.; Sens. Bennett Champ Clark, D., Mo., James P. Pope, D., Ind.; and Homer T. Bone, D., Wash. The minority report was signed by Sens. Walter George, D., Ga.; Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich.; and Warren Borah, R., N. J.

The charges against the munitions industry, in which the entire committee joined, included:

1. That the department had permitted data on latest American arms improvements to pass into the hands of foreign agents of munitions firms who gave other nations a military advantage over the United States.

2. That munitions firms resorted to a form of bribery of officials of foreign governments, thus causing a threat to peace.

3. That munitions firms opposed most disarmament proposals.

4. That munitions makers used the latest improvements in machinery "to scare nations" into armaments race.

5. That there is a record of "rich profits" by munitions makers when limitation proposals failed or could be evaded.

The conclusion that government ownership is "the only effective manner" of preventing huge profits on government contracts was reached by the majority after two years of inquiry into the secrets of the arms traffic through testimony of such figures as J. P. Morgan and associates, Eugene Grace and the Du Ponts.

The majority concluded federal ownership would stop "sale of American military inventions abroad" and would permit the vessel to produce all necessary vessels even for a naval race by investing as little as $23,000,000 in expansion of facilities.

Their proposal was for the government to produce warships, gun forges, projectiles and armor

$759,000,000 TAX
BILL UP TO HOUSE

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(UP)—Speaker Joseph W. Byrns said today that the $759,000,000 administration tax bill would be introduced in the house tomorrow and that debate probably would begin Thursday.

Sixteen hours of debate will be allotted, he said, indicating passage some time next week.

Byrns said the ways and means committee's report on the bill may be made tomorrow night or Wednesday.

Asked if he anticipated any "real trouble" in the $1,500,000,000 relief appropriation for which President Roosevelt has asked, Byrns said a "up of members definitely planned to fight for an "earmarking" of $700,000,000 for PWA.

FUN AT HOLLYWOOD PARTY

Animals of the jungles were lionized at a recent cocktail party, held in Hollywood by John Hewlett, animal exhibitor. But while the beast remained tee-totally tame, the party got a bit wild. The lion-back ride by Evelyn Venable, below, was the main diversion.

GIRL RELATES HOW TWO DIED IN AIR CRASH

DUNLO, Pa., April 20.—(UP)—A fleeting glimpse of a smoking red and blue biplane by a mountain school girl offered the only discoverable clue today to the cause of the airplane crash yesterday that killed Frederick H. Harvey, vice president of a national restaurant chain, and his wife. The plane, Harvey's own in which he was taking his young wife home to Kansas City from New York after her return Wednesday from a visit to London, caught fire and was destroyed after breaking through several tree tops and five 20,000 volt wires. Bodies of both victims were burned beyond recognition. Investigation by county and state authorities revealed only one person who saw the plane in its last minutes before the crash. She was Pauline Tansley, 16, of Kaysa, Pa., a short distance from Dunlo. "I saw it flying low over me," she told Coroner Cyrus W. Davis, "with thick black smoke pouring from it in puffs that looked like they came from explosions."

Davis said many residents of the region heard "an awful crash" when or just before it struck the ground. The plane fell 600 feet or more from a highway overshadowed by trees.

In recent years Harvey, 37, had become an active director of development of Fred Harvey, Inc., the hotel, restaurant, newstand and miscellaneous mart chain originated by his grandfather, the original Fred Harvey, in a shanty railroad station at Topeka, Kan. The company operates all concessions on trains and in stations of the Santa Fe railroad.

EVACUATE ADDIS ABABA

CITY IN PANIC AS POPULATION SEEKS SHELTER

Britain Threatens to Consider New Sanctions Against Italy

GENEVA, April 20.—(UP)—The Council of the League of Nations, after receiving a warning from Britain that she might have to take independent action against Italy if the league fails to end the Ethiopian war, decided to address a supreme appeal to Italy.

EUROPEAN DEVELOPMENTS
THE GRAVITY of the European crisis over Ethiopia was emphasized at Geneva today when Britain informed the league she might consider separate action against Italy and also is ready to consider new economic and financial sanctions.

Italy demanded possession of Ethiopia as the price of an armistice and Ethiopia appealed for new penalties against Italy.

The Italian forces in Ethiopia were threatening Addis Ababa from both north and south and the population was evacuating the capital in panic.

Berlin meanwhile made an impressive display of military strength in a parade in honor of Adolf Hitler's birthday.

ADDIS ABABA, April 20.—(UP)—The government rushed stores of gun cotton out along the road to Desaye today, planning to blow up bridges over cascades and to block mountain roads in the path of the Italian advance.

Natives, dazed and panic stricken, began to evacuate the city, believing the arrival of Italian troops was imminent.

Motor lorries roared incessantly through the city. Normal life was suspended.

The road from Desaye was crowded with motor trucks from the front, and tattered, flying fugitives from the Ethiopian army.

DEMAND REPEAL OF ANTI-RADICAL LAWS

SACRAMENTO, April 20.—(UP)—A drive seeking freedom for all political prisoners and repeal of California's criminal syndicalism act was under way today following a conference here attended by more than 500 delegates and observers.

Release from prison or at least minimum sentences for the eight men and women sentenced under the criminal syndicalism act here last year was asked by the conference.

Assemblyman Paul Ritchie, San Diego, in the keynote address, pointed out that the state legislature would not repeal the act because of a "reactionary" senate, and said the people should take advantage of the referendum.

"If we can repeal this un-American act we will have done much to turn the tide drifting toward Fascism and bring back real social justice. It is just such laws as this that may turn what might be peaceful revolt into violent revolution," Ritchie warned.

Man Kills Wife,
Pets and Himself

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(UP)—Choosing death to eviction from his home, William A. Botta, 47, killed his wife today, destroyed their four pets with gun and knife, and then fatally wounded himself.

Botta died in a hospital, two hours after being found unconscious beside the body of his wife, Aimee, 45. A mound of earth in the backyard yielded the bodies of a police dog, a smaller dog, a parrot and a cat, all with throats cut or pierced with bullet wounds.

LAUNCHES DRIVE ON BUMS
DENVER, Colo., April 20.—(UP)—Colorado's drive against indigent tourists began at dawn today, when national guardsmen, called out by Governor Edwin C. Johnson to halt the influx of alien laborers from other states, took command of all ports of entry on the southern border.

Colorado's initiation of California's "bum blockade" extended from Utah to Kansas, with every entrance point from Oklahoma and New Mexico under the scrutiny of the guardsmen.

The men had orders to stay all cars, buses and trains—with the exception of first-class passenger limiteds—to search them for the "undesirables."

LATE FLASHES
WASHINGTON, April 20.—(UP)—The house today passed the Rogers bill authorizing an increase in the army air corps strength to 4000 planes.

Mama, That Monster's Here Again!

INVERNESS, Scotland, April 20.—(UP)—The Lochness monster has officially opened the summer tourist season.

Three Glasgow university students reported seeing the monster, which after years of residence is almost a community pet, "snorting" and swimming through the water at tremendous speed. It was about 35 feet long, he said, "with a snakelike head and an undulating body with three humps."

NAVY REQUESTS PERMIT FOR 2 NEW WARSHIPS

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(UP)—Admiral William T. Standley carried to the White House today a navy request for immediate authorization of construction of two new battle cruisers.

Standley urged presidential approval of the program so that an immediate effort could be made to obtain congressional authorization allowing the navy to proceed with plans for the ships.

Standley said no new funds would be required immediately for the battleships although the total construction costs of the ships would run between $40,000,000 and $50,000,000 apiece.

Mr. Roosevelt has not indicated his views on the battleship program, having said he desired to consider the matter more fully before making any decision.

Under the 26-year age limit for battleships established by the U. S. navy will have three over-age ships in 1941. As its requires four years to build a battleship, two laid down this year should be ready for commission when the three become over-age.

Standley's proposed program would match the British building schedule. Britain expects to lay down two battleships this year.

The American vessels would be of approximately 35,000 tons and would mount either 14 or 16 inch guns.

SENATOR OLSON TO FORM THIRD PARTY

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(UP)—A call for members was issued today by State Senator Culbert L. Olson for a new organization of Democrats known as "California Progressive Democrats."

The organization is headed by party members who consider themselves more progressive than the regular state Democratic faction headed by Sen. William Gibbs McAdoo and who do not desire to affiliate themselves with Upton Sinclair's Epic-Democrats.

Four men who once were leaders of the Epic organization are listed among the 13 organizers of the new movement. They are James M. Carter, Jerry Voorhis, Assemblyman Paul A. Ritchie of San Diego and Frank Scully, novelist.

The first three resigned last week as directors of the End Poverty league.

NEW G.O.P. MAGAZINE PUTS ACE BOONDOGLERS 'ON PAN'

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(UP)—The Republican National committee today produced the first issue of its new magazine, "The Trumpeter," designed to burn the ears of a lot of folks whose names don't need mentioning here.

The Trumpeter offers a $5 reward for every two weeks and distributed free to anybody who writes in, will have a circulation of 100,000 by convention time in June.

Chairman Henry P. Fletcher of the Republican National committee predicted.

The young Republican division of the national committee is acting as editorial board, stressing satire and front-cover picture of a wise-looking old elephant at ease in a big chair, instructing a young elephant in a checked coat about the Constitution.

If a Republican poet will write an ode like that and illustrate it with an appropriate drawing, he'll get an extra $25, the Trumpeter

JEWISH-ARABIC RIOTS SPREAD IN JERUSALEM

13 Killed Over Week End As Tension Grips All Palestine

JERUSALEM, April 20.—(UP)—Rioting broke out anew today at Jaffa and Tel Aviv, adjoining it. Jews attacked Arabs in the streets at Tel Aviv. When the news reached Jaffa, Arabs closed their shops and attacked Jews.

Arabs at Jaffa attacked a Briton, mistaking him for a Jew. Drawing a revolver, he shot at two Arabs and wounded one.

Tension gripped all Palestine and authorities after riots at Jaffa and Tel Aviv over the week end in which 10 Jews and three Arabs were killed and several Jews were probably fatally wounded.

Communication between Jaffa and Jerusalem, Haifa and Jericho was cut temporarily as was communication between Jewish settlements.

Arabs at Nabulus demonstrated yesterday, demanding stoppage of Jewish immigration.

Arabs were reported to be planning a general strike of indefinite duration, to force the government to halt Jewish immigration.

Arabs at Nabulus, north of Jerusalem, were reported to plan a general strike and a mass meeting, despite a specific government refusal to permit the meeting.

Many Jews were leaving Jaffa for safer Tel Aviv, fearing attack during the funeral of Arab victims. Several Jewish shops in Jaffa were looted.

TWO ARRESTED IN SPECTACULAR RAID

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(UP)—Robert J. James, a 21-year-old man, was arrested today on suspicion of a morals offense, involving his 21-year-old niece, Lois Wright, pretty manicurist.

The girl was held as a material witness by the district attorney's spectacular raid, culminating several weeks of savagery on a South La Jolla avenue "love cottage." Investigators said they had wired the place with dictaphones and listened to every word spoken between uncle and niece during that period.

James' fifth wife, Mary E. James, was found dead in the fishpond at her Verdugo road home last August 5. James was questioned but released, and the death was recorded as accidental drowning.

MAY BE ALIVE

Missing since they soared from Alameda, Calif., a year ago, in a supposed "suicide pact," Mrs. Doris Trethaway and Pilot Richard K. Smith, below, may still be alive. Alameda police are probing rumors of a letter from Smith purporting to reveal that the couple were living in San Antonio, Tex., after their rented plane was confiscated in Mexico. The woman's husband has just won a divorce decree.

PEACE MOVE IN SHIP DISPUTE HITS NEW SNAG

SAN FRANCISCO, April 20.—(UP)—Harry Bridges, left wing leader of Pacific Coast Maritime unionists, returned today to the scene of major conflict and dispute determined to fight against any acceptance of a proposed peace agreement aimed at settling San Francisco waterfront controversies.

As Bridges came back from a Portland address and went into seclusion, the controversy in which he was a central figure brought San Francisco's usually busy shipping activity almost to the point of extinction. Only two ships were being worked here and only five in the entire San Francisco bay area as the dispute entered its second week.

Bridges is scheduled to address the membership of local 35-79 when it meets tonight to discuss the peace agreement it already had repudiated unofficially, but his plans may be interrupted by demands of the district attorney's office for his presence before a grand jury session at the same time.

300 DIGGING MADLY THRU MINE SHAFT

Two Still Alive, One Dead After Seven Days 141 Feet Underground

BULLETIN
MOOSE RIVER, N. S., April 20.—(UP)—Three hundred men worked like mad today in a crumbling, perilous shaft in one last desperate effort to reach two Toronto mine owners rapidly dying of cold and exposure after more than seven days' imprisonment 141 feet beneath the surface.

One of the three men who was trapped a week ago Sunday night, Herman B. Magill, already was dead in the cavernous and wet underground prison.

Begs Rescuers To Hurry
Through an iron pipe driven from the surface into the mine, the other two, Dr. D. A. Robertson and Alfred Scadding, begged the rescuers:

"In the name of God, hurry, hurry!"

The doctor, able only to diagnose his own possible fate, feared he and Scadding could last only a few hours longer. Rising water in the mine added to the perils of exposure.

Hot brandy and concentrated soup, lowered in tubes through the pipe, buoyed them somewhat. At 9:15 a. m. they were tremendously cheered by the fact that they could hear the rescue workers tunneling furiously toward their prison.

"How much longer do you think we'll have to wait?" Scadding pleaded over a little microphone that was lowered to them so that they could conserve their waning energy by not having to shout up the pipe.

C. H. Ivey, brother-in-law of Dr. Robertson, was at the other end of the circuit.

May Drop Charges Against Berkeley

LOS ANGELES, April 20.—(UP)—The district attorney's office announced today it was still undecided whether Busby Berkeley, film director, would be tried a third time on second degree murder charges in the death of three persons in a triple automobile crash.

Chief Deputy Robert P. Stewart indicated the matter would depend upon the recommendation of Deputies David Coleman and D. L. Di Becchio who directed the prosecution at the second trial which ended Saturday night in another deadlocked jury. The jury was discharged after 24 hours of deliberation in which it voted, 7 to 5, for acquittal.

Calumet Camp and Auxiliary, United Spanish War Veterans, and the Calumet Drum Corps, were represented yesterday at Brookside Park, Pasadena, at a picnic of the Citrus Belt United Spanish War Veterans' club, attended by approximately 1000 veterans and their wives.

Commander James A. Rindel and Mrs. Hazel Hall, president of the auxiliary, headed the delegation. The picnic yesterday marked the annual election of officers of the Citrus Belt United Spanish War Veterans' club and Frank P. Rowe, of Santa Ana, was elected secretary of the organization. Other officers elected were: William Winters, president and Sam A. Seligman, vice president. The club is an association of approximately 52 camps auxiliaries, Lairs of the M. O. E. and Swamp of the M. O. L.

Merrill, W. R. DuBois, Henry Helmer, K. T. DuBois, Walter A. "Proctor" H. O. Jackson and Milton R. Kelliger. Messrs. Charles E. Dixon, Walter W. Tantlinger, Arthur F. Hammond, Charles C. Cozad, W. J. RIGID REGULATION OF EGG HANDLING SOUGHT AT PARLEY

More rigid regulations governing the handling of eggs is being sought by poultrymen, farm bureau officials and Extension Service workers, who met in Riverside at a conference of the Seven Southern Counties Poultry Department of the Farm Bureau.

A. H. Heinemann of Orange is chairman of the group and Assistant Farm Advisor W. M. Cory is secretary. Each county has a legislative representative on the committee. E. F. Zimmer of Anaheim is the Orange county representative.

Local producers are anxious to establish the quality of home produced eggs and poultry as compared to shipments from out of state. Mixture of out of state eggs with the same been detected in some instances, and has resulted in causing local egg prices to suffer. Enforcement of the egg law is in the hands of the agriculture commissioner's office in most counties, as a part of the state Department of Agriculture. On the whole, Orange county has proven comparatively free from violations such as are occurring in other counties, stated C. J. Marks of the Orange County Farm Bureau. Announcement was made at the meeting of the establishment of a poultry feed test plant at Fontana, under the direction of Dr. Schofield of the Extension Service of the University of California.

Court Notes

Preliminary hearing of charges that Nick Padillo, 26, Mexican, committed a statutory offense against a 16-year-old Mexican girl in May, 1934, when he began living with her as man and wife, was postponed by Justice Kenneth Morrison today, until next Monday. The complaint alleges Padillo never married the girl.

The first U. S. Secretary of Agriculture was Jeremiah McLain Rusk, who served under President Harrison from 1889 to 1893.

KEN Murray SAYS:

President Roosevelt showed all his old time vigor in the opening speech of his campaign at Baltimore, when he hinted to the Young Democrats that he planned to create more work for the unemployed. . . . Well, hold on to your hats, boys! Here we go through that alphabet again!

Seems to me that Franklin was talking to the wrong bunch about unemployment. . . . It's the Republicans that are really looking for jobs.

It was noted, however, that the older element in the audience acted somewhat cool toward the speech. . . . Guess F. D. better not sing "My Maryland" too loud until after November.

So Remember: This is the year, if you want to know which way the wind blows, watch the smoke from the campaign cigars.

besieged the bomb-proof British legation for shelter. Americans prepared to take refuge there if necessary, by order of American Minister Cornelius Van H. Egan.

Bhata Tekala, mayor of the city, tried to rally to him the mob of 5,000 nondescript warriors, some armed only with swords or spears, who pledged themselves in a wildly cheering demonstration yesterday to defend the city.

The government issued what arms it had.

Women sought to take their places with their men.

"All able men must make a last stand for liberty," said a government appeal to the people. "It is better to die than to be enslaved. The spirit of Adowa still lives." (At Adowa in 1896 Ethiopians slaughtered an Italian army.)

Refugees sought to leave for the coast by train.

A United Press correspondent, traveling by caravan in the north, sent word by native runner that dispatch runners were converging on Debra Behan, 60 miles from Addis Ababa, with reports that two columns of Italians had crossed the Red river 30 miles to the northeast.

BROTHERHOOD MEN WILL FILL PULPIT AT LOCAL CHURCH

During the absence of their pastor, Dr. George Warner, who will depart within a few days to attend the general world conference of the Methodist Episcopal church during the latter part of April and the month of May, members of the Men's Brotherhood of the Santa Ana M. E. church will take charge of the mid-week and Sunday programs.

As a feature of the programs for the period, the Brotherhood, under the leadership of George Palmer and J. E. Head, chairman, will sponsor a Wednesday night dinner to be served at 6 o'clock by mothers of the Boy Scout troop of the church. Proceeds will go to the treasury of the troop.

Plans call for a series of discussions at dinner on the general subject, "What It Means to be a Christian." The Rev. Joe Thompson, of Wintersburg, will discuss "The Wonderful Way of Living" next Wednesday evening.

At 7:30 the group will adjourn to the church chapel for the mid-week meeting. Prof. and Mrs. F. J. Haynes will have charge of the music, and the Rev. Mr. Thompson will speak from the subject, "First Things First." This is the first of a series of talks on "Tests of Character." The general public is invited to attend the dinners and meetings.

Local Briefs

The Orange County Optometric association will hold its April meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock and present an extension program at that time. Dr. Robert S. Julian of Fullerton will have charge of the meeting during which the following subjects will be discussed: "Special Appliances," "Penalties of Poor Vision," "The Doctrine of Human Service" and "Orthoptics."

David E. Crist, 23, of Yorba Linda, and Olive R. Poirier, 19, of Anaheim, have applied for a marriage license in Riverside.

Director Terrence H. Halloran of the SRA was in Los Angeles today attending sessions of the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the California Conference of Social Work and kindred groups. Both Halloran and Supervisor W. C. Jerome are serving on committee connected with the meetings, which continue until April 23.

Wind velocity Saturday averaged 2.6 m.p.h., according to records at the Santa Ana Junior college meteorological station. Temperatures ranged from 52 at 2 a. m. to 66 at 12 noon. Relative humidity was 78 per cent at 3 p. m.

more. But neither Ivey nor anyone else on the surface dared hope that it would be that soon.

Talks To His Wife

There still was probably 30 feet of rock to penetrate. At 10:30 a. m., however, Robertson, talking to his wife, was more hopeful and said they could hang on 10 or 12 hours or perhaps longer.

Tears streaming down her face, her voice choked by torturing fears and hopes, Mrs. Robertson spoke into the microphone.

"Eddie, Eddie, they're coming."

"It's Pauline, we're coming. Hold on, darling," the doctor replied, trying to calm her. "We're all right. If they can get a few here in 10 or 12 hours or even longer, we'll be okay."

Mrs. Robertson and Mrs. Magill had been at the mine top for days. They were asleep when the pipe was put through last night. When they awoke this morning, Mrs. Magill was told that almost the first news to come up was that her husband was dead, that only Mrs. Robertson could hope any longer.

Officials said they were "hopeful" the rescue workers could break through to the mine tunnel by possibly noon, providing—always that dread doubt—that there were no more cave-ins in the sloping shaft in which the rescue crews gladly were risking their lives.

Helping anxious vigil at the surface along with Nova Scotia officials and hundreds of people from the countryside, spoke first to Dr. Robertson over the improvised microphone circuit.

The conversation with the men who had stayed off death for a week but still were face to face with it went like this:

Ivey—How are you Eddie?

Robertson—We are going up on the east slope. We can hear you digging. For God's sake don't blast.

Scadding—Can you hear us?

Ivey—Yes, perfectly.

Scadding—We have difficulty moving around. Our feet are sore and wet. How much longer do you think we'll have to wait?

Ivey—About an hour.

Scadding—What time is it now?

Ivey—A quarter past nine.

Robertson—What day is it?

Ivey—Monday, the 20th.

Robertson—Did you say Sunday?

(An official here suggested to Ivey that it would be better to tell them it was Sunday.)

Ivey—Yes, Sunday. Do you want some food?

(No answer.)

Ivey—The doctor says you have to eat so we are sending down some soup through the rubber hose.

Robertson—Okay.

Then steaming soup in vials was lowered through the pipe and there was no further conversation for a time.

Rescuers ork feverishly on the surface and in the shaft leading to the underground workings, men who had been laboring for a week forgot their aches and kept going on their nerves.

They placed all their hope on being able to make an opening by way of the so-called Reynolds shaft, a sloping entrance into the mine so dangerous that it was abandoned 25 years ago. They turned to this shaft after repeated rock slides in the main vertical shaft had blocked that avenue.

Timbers in the Reynolds shaft were so rotten with age that they crumbled almost as they were placed. Men worked behind the danger men at the front to place new timbers. No one knew when tons of rock might give away and bury them all. But no one seemed to care.

"I'll be up when they carry me up," one miner said as he went into the shaft to take his turn among the 300 men who were supposed to work in short relays.

By 10 a. m. officials figured there probably were 30 feet of rock an debris to cut through before the rescuers could get into the mine.

Crews were sent into the woods nearby to chop down trees for timbering the shaft. They could not do that fast enough to tractors were hatched to buildings at the mine head. The shaft house, a bunk house and a storehouse were ripped from their foundations.

Men with axes and sledge hammers tore the buildings apart and the planking thus obtained was rushed into the mine.

The first building was ripped loose with such a crash that men came pell-mell out of the shaft, fearing that there had been another collapse in the mine.

The daggersmen cursed when they saw what had caused the noise and then went down again.

HOLD ANNUAL MEET AT S. A. GOLF CLUB

The annual dinner-meeting of the Santa Ana Country club will be held tonight, with the election of three new directors scheduled.

A group of six—V. Hugh Lowe, George Jeffrey, V. H. Tibbs, R. A. Emison, R. C. Holles and C. D. Holmes—has been nominated, from which three will be chosen to succeed C. P. Boyer, Dr. W. S. Wallace and Hugh Lowe. The latter was appointed to fill the unexpired term of the late G. B. Shattuck.

Toads six inches long and three inches wide were discovered in South America by Dr. C. W. Parsons, of the University of Glasgow.

RESOLUTION OPPOSING PRISON FARM COMES BEFORE COUNCIL

A resolution opposing the location of a prison farm in Orange county is expected to be adopted by the Santa Ana city council tonight. In the meantime, the chamber of commerce had not decided on method of submitting the question to its membership, it was learned.

Councilman Plummer Bruns told the Register today that he had instructed City Attorney L. W. Blodgett to prepare a resolution opposing the location of the prison farm in Orange county.

This resolution will be presented to the city council tonight by Bruns, and, according to reliable reports, the city council will act against the location of the prison farm in this county.

The state prison farm site committee still believes the Costa Mesa site is the best so far looked at, and is loath to give it up. No decision on the question will be made by the committee until the Orange county site is either purchased or rejected. Assemblyman Edward T. Craig has advised Orange county citizens and groups to make known their desire in the matter, declaring he has been unable so far to secure abandonment of plans to locate the prison farm in this county.

The committee, of which Assemblyman Craig is a member, if adopted by the council, a one in Kern county and another in San Luis Obispo county. No decision on where the prison farm will be located is expected to be made tomorrow.

In the meantime, the chamber of commerce, which, through the board of directors had gone on record as opposing the location of the prison here appeared to be undecided today on what the next step in the matter will be.

President Rex Kennedy said the plate for the navy, and powder, rifles, pistols and machine guns for the army.

The minority, on the other hand, argued that local political pressure would be exerted to keep government munitions plants running at full capacity regardless of defense needs and that the result would be to encourage heavy arming instead of disarmament.

LIQUOR TAX BRINGS $41,000 TO COUNTY

Orange county has received a total of $41,490.18 from the liquor traffic since repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, according to a report revealed today by H. E. MacKenzie, liquor control officer for the state board of equalization.

The amount turned back to the county represented the county's share of license fees collected from dealers since the sale of liquor was legalized. Of the total amount $3529.04 was returned to Santa Ana and $5764.41 to the city of Anaheim. The remaining $27,186.73 was turned over to other municipalities in the county and to the county as the apportionment for licenses sold in unincorporated areas.

In the future, according to MacKenzie, cash apportionments and fund returns will be made quarterly.

NEW DEAL DEFENDS ITS POWER PROGRAM

WASHINGTON, April 20.—(UP)—The New Deal staunchly defended its $200,000,000 municipal power program today as "one phase of the nation's fight against the depression" after utility interests asked the District of Columbia supreme court to outlaw the far-reaching plan as "unfair and illegal."

Public works administration attorneys, fighting for the right to advance PWA funds to municipalities for power plants, denied assertions of attorneys for five private power companies that the projects would ruin their business by unfair competition.

Represented by two former high government officials, the companies sought permanent injunctions against 10 projects in a test case which was expected eventually to reach the supreme court for a final ruling.

Police News

Sheriff's officers today were seeking a 65-year-old man, dressed in grey suit and hat, who, W. S. Christea, Box 183, West Anaheim, said stole his purse yesterday morning.

"I was bending down the man and had given him his breakfast," Christea said. "When he left, I discovered he had rifled the dresser drawer and taken my purse."

ALLEGED BURGLAR APPREHENDED BY WESTMINSTER MAN

An alert service station operator, G. H. Kemp of Westminster, who awakened early this morning to find an alleged burglar in his home, brought about the man's arrest by taking the license number of his car as he escaped.

Kemp, Ocean avenue and Huntington Beach boulevard, west of Garden Grove, saw George F. Dukes, 24-year-old San Diego man, in the act of carrying away his typewriter. Grabbing a shotgun, he held the man at bay until both were outside. He dropped the bead to his car and escaped. Quickly calling the sheriff's office, Kemp furnished a complete description of the Dukes car.

Following the spot, Deputy Sheriff James Workman took up the escaped man's trail, overtaking and arresting him at the edge of Laguna Beach. Dukes did not put up resistance but declared he had merely made a mistake in taking the typewriter. With Dukes was his wife, but she was not arrested. Dukes was booked at county jail, charged with burglary, today. Officers praised Kemp's alertness in furnishing the description necessary to the man's apprehension.

Fighting was the outgrowth of the murder last week of a Jew by bandits. Police fired on a crowd at Tel Aviv which held a demonstration Friday in protest against alleged laxity in pursuing the murderers.

The fighting yesterday at Jaffa and Tel Aviv was fierce and deadly. Eleven Jews and one Arab were wounded seriously and 23 Jews and 14 Arabs were wounded slightly.

Panic was caused when Arabs fled Jaffa for Tel Aviv, attacking fleeing Jews and assaulting Jewish motor buses, of which they burned three.

Police all over the country halted and examined all pedestrians and automobiles during the night. The United Press correspondent, motoring from Haifa, was warned at Jenin, 60 miles north of Jerusalem, that he might proceed only on his own responsibility. Proceeding, his automobile was heavily stoned and damaged at Nabulus. The United Press correspondent was injured slightly.

time. Assistant District Attorney August Fournier revealed he intended to subpoena the union leader to testify in the grand jury's investigation of the conspiracy to murder charge filed against Ivan Hunter, International Seamen's union vice president, and then withdraw when the principal state witness repudiated his story.

Hunter, considered a conservative in union circles, charged the whole matter was a frameup to discredit his efforts to eliminate radical leadership of western seamen. His attorney asked a grand jury inquiry and Fournier charged Bridges as one of the witnesses.

Only two ships were being worked in San Francisco, and three in the East Bay area, J. E. Hogan, chief dispatcher at the Longshore Hiring hall, reported as the waterfront deadlock entered its seventh day.

Hogan said five longshore gangs were unloading the Union Steamship company's Cape Horn and three gangs were working the U. S. Navy transport Arctic, both docked at San Francisco.

Nine gangs were employed in working ships at Richmond and Alameda, Hogan said.

SAFETY COUNCIL IS GIVEN SUPPORT BY STATE SHERIFFS

Obtaining the signature of Sheriff Logan Jackson today, the California State Sheriffs association went on record in complete support of the California Safety Council, Los Angeles organization promoting traffic safety within the state.

Sheriff Jackson, vice president of the state association, was contacted by Sheriff John P. Stocker, of Napa county, who is president of the state group. The sheriffs went on record favoring six points: safety education in high schools; more vigorous tests for drivers; finger-printing of all drivers; restriction of commercial use of highways to reduce traffic hazards; mandatory impounding of cars belonging to drunk drivers, and immediate application of all scientific traffic devices which will better conserve life.

CAMPAIGN JUST LOT OF 'SHAM' COUGHLIN SAYS

DETROIT, April 20.—(UP)—The current presidential campaign was branded a "sham-battle," and the utterances of the nation's political leaders were described as "vapid mouthings" by Father Charles E. Coughlin in his regular Sunday address.

He said no single, sharply defined issue on any subject bearing upon reestablishment of "real" prosperity and equality of opportunity had been brought out in the present "sham-battle" being waged by the Roosevelts, by the Landons, by the Howers and the Knoxes, the Vandenberges and the Borahs, as well as by the gas brigade of the great defenders of human liberty, the American editorial writers.

"Both major parties, he said, had 'ganged-up' to defeat the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage bill, despite the fact neither had formulated a program for the rehabilitation of the farmer nor for returning to congress the right to issue and regulate the money of the nation."

Father Coughlin criticized the action of two Democratic Congressmen, Reps. Byron N. Scott of California and Riley J. Wilson of Louisiana, whom, he said, withdrew their names from the petition to force a house vote on the Frazier-Lemke bill last week.

He said that in changing their minds at the last minute, Scott and Wilson had brought to the minds of "millions" of Americans a question, and challenged the two congressmen to reply to a letter which he would mail to each, asking: "Don't you believe today that the Frazier-Lemke bill is entitled to the Democratic privilege of being voted upon?"

He said that the American people were entitled to a complete answer, "without any pussyfooting," and announced he would read the answers over the air next Sunday, if Scott and Wilson "see fit" to reply.

Conroy Released On Bail of $500

Vincent Conroy, 41-year-old war veteran, who was returned here Saturday afternoon to face charges of forging an $11.58 SEHA check belonging to Clyde Clark, and cashing it at a market, Washington and Main, was ordered to appear for preliminary hearing before Justice Kenneth Morrison on April 29 at 9 a. m. He was released on $500 bond. Conroy, it was said, tendered the check to Charles E. Chatlain, meat dealer at the market, who identified him as the man who came to his market last February 8, Conroy, according to Assistant Chief Harry Fink, lived in Santa Ana prior to the alleged forgery, but thereafter moved to Los Angeles.

DEATH NOTICES

A WORD OF COMFORT

When faith founders upon the rock of sorrow, the shore of grief, the break is more subtle and gradual with others, but the disintegration is no less relentless and sure. This ought not so to be.

Your case is typical, not exceptional. Others have loved and have lost a wife. If you fail to strive with God's help, to summon courage and to hold to your faith in Him, you demonstrate that you are not worthy of the love which you have had.

Refuse to repine. Stand on your feet—Do your best and God will sustain you.

JILES—April 20, 1936, at her home on West Fifth street, Laura Bell Jiles, age 45 years. She is survived by her husband, Martin D. S. Wilson, of Paris, Illinois; also two grandchildren. Announcement of funeral later by Harrell and Brown.

COGELI—Albert Cogeli, 28, of this city, passed away at a local hospital yesterday. He is survived by three brothers, Harry, Allen and James, of Los Angeles, and his father, Harry Cogeli. He was born in Massachusetts. Funeral services will be in charge of the Shannon funeral home of Orange at Fairhaven cemetery tomorrow at 10 a. m. IRVINE'S SUIT WILL BE TOPIC OF DISCUSSION

Seeking to definitely establish Orange county's position in regard to a settlement of the suit filed by James Irvine, landed Orange county rancher, in federal court against upper Santa Ana river interests to enjoin them from spreading water to the harm of Orange county, a general meeting of the most important water groups in the county will be held Thursday night, The Register learned today.

Representatives of the Orange County Water district, Water Incorporated, private pumpers organization, the Anaheim Union Water company, the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company and the water committee of the Orange County Farm Bureau will attend the meeting, it was learned from a reliable authority.

At this meeting facts and figures regarding status of negotiations with upper river interests for settlement of the water spreading suit will be submitted for general approval of the water groups.

The meeting is considered by water leaders to be of considerable importance, because the object of the gathering is to unite and harmonize Orange county interests on what this county believes should be the basis of settlement of the long disputed water case.

Following the meeting, should an agreement be reached, the demands of Orange county will be presented to the upper Santa Ana river interests for answer.

SIX ARE HURT IN ACCIDENTS OVER WEEKEND

No deaths were registered on Orange county highways over the weekend, according to police and hospital reports filed today, but three persons were seriously injured in six automobile accidents, while four men were jailed on charges of drunk driving. One of the men charged with drunk driving was involved in an accident which injured one, while one of those seriously injured, officers said, will be charged with being drunk upon his release from the hospital.

As Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy H. Robinson, 604 North Batavia street, Orange, were driving along Golden West road, a mile southwest of Westminster about 5:45 a. m. yesterday, Mrs. Robinson, who was driving, fell asleep, according to word given State Highway Patrolman Ben Craig, and the car crashed head-on into a telephone pole. Mrs. Robinson suffered a fractured left arm and badly bruised hip, and Mr. Robinson, 41, a broken left leg and several fractured ribs, as well as multiple bruises. Both were rushed to St. Joseph hospital, where they were resting earlier today, according to reports.

Saved From Death
John Rink of West Fifth street, Santa Ana, was saved from death by Officer L. H. Nicholson, who stopped the flow of blood from Rink's badly torn external jugular vein, until a doctor appeared on the scene of an accident last night in front of 604 North Sycamore, Santa Ana. The doctor praised Nicholson, admitting the officer saved Rink's life. Rink was driving with Elmer Baumback, 1630 West Fifth street, as passenger, when the car ran into a parked car belonging to J. A. Randall, 403 East Twentieth street, Baumback escaping injury but Rink suffering a badly slashed jugular vein. Capt. R. S. Elliott of the police department placed a hold order on Rink, who will be charged with drunkenness when he gets out of the hospital. Rink was rushed to St. Joseph hospital and later transferred to Orange county hospital.

Ethel Schimberg, 34, of Hollywood, suffered shock and bruises, at 6 o'clock last evening at North Main and Santa Ana boulevard as cars driven by Charles Schimberg, 23, Hollywood, and James O. Davis, 43, 608 Minter street, Santa Ana, collided. J. J. Wright, 116 North Sycamore, Santa Ana, took Mrs. Schimberg to St. Joseph hospital for treatment, following the accident. Charles Vermillion, Route 2, Santa Ana, told officers he ran into a horse late last night on Delhi road north of Newport boulevard, injuring the horse but escaping without injury to himself.

Booked at Jail
After a collision late last night on Coast highway, 1800 block at Sunset Beach, Felipe Parades, 35, 317 West Santa Ana street, Anaheim, was arrested by Deputy Sheriffs G. E. McKelvey and John Ryan and booked at county jail for drunk driving. Officers, who witnessed the accident, said Parades drove his car without lights and made a U-turn on the highway, his car colliding with one driven by L. E. Orn, Los Angeles. Mrs. Orn was slightly injured. A doctor's report said Parades was "very drunk."

Edith Cocks, 55, was cut and bruised as the car in which she was riding with Russell Cocks, 73, Long Beach, struck a guard rail of the Santa Ana river bridge on Anaheim road, two miles east of Olive last evening. State highway officers were informed Cocks sought to pass another car and, in avoiding a head-on collision with a third car, struck the rail.

Stockton Carmack, 47, Compton, who was arrested last evening by Orange Officers V. G. Wolfe and Jack Sanford and charged with drunk driving, was given his choice of paying a $100 fine or serving 50 days in jail, when he appeared before Justice A. W. Swayze this morning.

CROWDS RUSH TO PAY TAXES ON FINAL DAY

Hundreds of belated taxpayers were working their way through the county tax collectors office this afternoon as the curtain was being rung down on payments of 1935-36 taxes, which go delinquent at 5 p. m. today.

Nearly $900,000 in tax charges remained on Collector J. C. Lamb's books when his office opened today for the final day's business. However, a considerable portion of this balance was in his hands, in the form of unopened mail, which has been piling up for several days.

Another large portion will arrive in the mail today, and possibly 2500 or more taxpayers will have made their payments at his office in person by closing time. More than 2500 taxpayers were handled on the final date last year.

Saturday's tax collections, all made in person by more than 2000 taxpayers, amounted to $131,039, the mail payments not being included in the tabulation. That left $895,648.60 still on the books, out of a total tax charge of $4,780,259.29.

Tax collections this year have gone slightly ahead of last year's collections, Lamb stated.

APPROVES CONTRACT FOR BEACH SCHOOL
Approval of a contract for construction of a gymnasium and classroom building at Laguna Beach for the Laguna High School District amounting to $37,039 was announced today by A. D. Wilder, state PWA director.

The PWA granted 45 per cent of the total cost for the project, which was listed with four other PWA projects in California.

CHOIR OF FORTY SINGS AT ABBEY
One of the outstanding musical programs of the year was presented yesterday during the Musical Memory hour at Melrose Abbey mausoleum when the Young People's choir of the First Presbyterian church sang.

The choir, featuring 40 young men and women, under direction of Whitford L. Hall, had charge of the program and appeared for the first time in their new robes. It was one of the most impressive programs that have been offered at the mausoleum in many months.

FORMER RESIDENT OF SANTA ANA DIES
Mr. and Mrs. John Sebastian, 490 South Bristol street, yesterday received a telegram from Mrs. Sebastian's sister, Mrs. Bert Wallace of West Plains, Mo., acquainting them with the sudden death on Saturday of her husband, Bert Wallace, formerly a well known business man of this city.

Mr. Wallace had been slightly indisposed but his condition was not regarded as serious by the family physician, so his death from a heart attack came as a shock to his family circle. He was in the grocery business in Santa Ana for many years prior to departure a few years ago for Missouri. Mrs. Wallace will be remembered as the former Mrs. Ernest Burrow.

Arrangements were made for funeral services to be held today in West Plains with burial in the cemetery of that city.

OLDEST MEMBER OF S. A. ELKS LODGE IS HONORED ON 93RD BIRTHDAY SATURDAY, APRIL 18

By MARAH ADAMS

Nathaniel Travis, 821 North Ross street, was 93 years old Saturday, and he observed the day with open house during the afternoon and evening when nearly 100 friends called to congratulate him on the occasion. Travis undoubtedly is one of the oldest, if not the oldest member of the Elks lodge in the United States, and he certainly is the oldest active Elk in the nation, seldom missing a meeting of the lodge and never having missed an installation of officers for many years.

If you were to meet Travis at the Elks' club as he sits intent at a game of chess and you were asked how old you thought him, your guess probably would be, "About 65." He is erect, his skin is smooth, his memory better than that of the average person and he does not wear glasses.

Travis has lived in Santa Ana for the past 33 years and he came to California 70 years ago as a young man from Kemptville, Nova Scotia. When he came here he developed an orange grove of 10 acres on South Bristol street, taking out pear and apricot trees to set out oranges. The grove is still a fine one and is in the care of the Travis family.

Born and brought up in Nova Scotia, Travis always had been interested in lumbering and teaming, so it was natural when an opportunity was offered he came west to engage in freighting, first at Wadsworth, Nev., and later in California. The first trip he made he cleared $1600 in 20 gold pieces. He drove from 16 to 20 miles, and he says, trips were made interesting from the large number of bandits holding up freight trains and stages.

Before coming west Travis had married a girl his own age, 21, and following the gift of 350 acres of land given him by his uncle he built a 23-room house for the use of hunters and fishermen coming north from the United States. This property he sold to a nephew for $1000. Travis and his wife, who since has passed away, observed their seventieth wedding anniversary at their North Ross street home, an unusual occasion.

The nonagenarian comes from a long lived family. He has been a pioneer in Nevada, California and Washington. In the latter state he owned five sections of land, filing on part and buying part, farming and raising cattle there. He went north from California, the trip costing him $20 a day for a period of six weeks, he relates. The trail he made in Washington was through virgin country and the same trail is in use today as a highway.

Before Mrs. Travis' death, the couple took their first airplane ride. He declares that being around young people keeps him young. Saturday he received a letter from A. T. Armstrong, 1008 North Broadway, extending congratulations. Armstrong is 92 years old and settled near Santa

NATHANIEL TRAVIS

Ana in 1871, five miles south of the city.

Not a detail of his past life is forgotten by Travis. He remembers vividly the beauty of his Nova Scotia home, with a nearby stream and his girl-wife standing in the doorway bidding him goodbye as he started for the west. The couple had three sons, Warren Travis and B. C. Travis of Walla Walla, Wash., the late L. S. Travis of Santa Ana, and one daughter, Mrs. N. E. Mathews, of Santa Ana. His grandson and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Mathews, live with him. Theodore Roosevelt was his favorite president.

At the open house Mrs. Harold E. Mathews was assisted by her cousin, Miss Evelyn Chapman, and Travis' daughter, Mrs. N. E. Mathews, in receiving guests. Cakes and ices were served from a table spread with a lace cloth over pink silk and centered with Tallman roses and silver and blue foilage in a clear crystal bowl flanked with crystal candle holders holding two white and one blue candle.

S. A. HIGH SCHOOL DEBATING TEAMS MAKE FINE SHOWING

Santa Ana High school's two debating teams entered in the state high school debating tournament at Redlands University last Friday and Saturday finished with honors, one team going through the semi-finals and finishing among the first five of the 30 teams entered, while the other local team defeated two of the teams that finished in the finals.

San Diego high school won first—California high school league this place and Corona high school placed second, these two teams being selected to represent California in the national tournament in May. Santa Ana No. 1 team, Beverly Hills and Bakersfield completed the first five.

On Friday evening there were four rounds of debating, the 30 teams being reduced to 12. On that evening, Santa Ana's No. 1 team, consisting of Audrey Granas and LeVonne Frandson, defeated the Corona team, which later placed second in the tournament; also Bakersfield, which had won the state title the last two years; and San Diego Herbert Hoover high; and was defeated by Beverly Hills high, the team which tied for first place in the Southern Paul Story, of Buena Park, was best man. A reception for members of the immediate families and intimate friends was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Story in Buena Park following the ceremony.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, April 20.—Terry Stephenson, county treasurer, talked entertainingly about the early history of Orange county at the Rotary club luncheon Friday at the Golden Bear cafe. Stephenson said that records of the courts and other historical documents indicated the early day ranchers were heavy betters on horse races. He said that the ranchers would sometimes bet as high as $20,000 on a horse race at the famous rodeos of early history.

RUMOR MONITORING

A congressional authority is digging up data of rumor factories. He intends to have one of the investigating committees look in to the matter. Also it would not be surprising if he gets some help from the justice department shortly.

His advance information indicates there are no fewer than three or four organizations which will start a malicious rumor over the country for you at a price. Two of these outfits are said to maintain respectable fronts. They were originally organized for merchandising purposes and got into rumor mongering as a sideline.

One of the groups is supposed to have started the malicious whisper about a certain brand of cigarettes some months back. Their latest products are fantastic whistlings that there was something wrong about the deaths of Governor Ritchie, James M. Beck and one or two other prominent opponents of the New Deal who have died recently. They seem to have avoided President Roosevelt as a subject during the last few months. Proof against them is very hard to get, but there are now inner indications that they will not be in business long.

REV. TIBBETS LAUDS GLY-CAS AS THE ONE MEDICINE OF MERIT

Local Minister Now Enjoys Good Health After 50 Years' Suffering; Indigestion, Rheumatism Easily Conquered By New Herbal Remedy.

Taking poisonous impurities from the system in a way that is positive, yet harmless, with an action on the intestinal tract declared to be entirely different from all other medicines, this new Gly-Cas discovery is giving complete relief in so many old and agonizing cases of rheumatism, neuritis, stomach, liver, kidney, bowel and blood troubles that it is truly astonishing.

REV. A. T. TIBBETS

Read what Rev. A. T. Tibbets, 2309 West Sixth Street, Santa Ana, age 78, a well known local retired Baptist minister, who has lived here for the past fourteen years, said recently to the Gly-Cas Man at the McCoy Drug Co. No. 6, 108 West Fourth Street, this city:

"Gly-Cas is one medicine that does not have any competition for the ordinary medicines of today cannot be compared with its remarkable action," said Rev. Tibbets. "For fifteen years I had been in failing health. Most of my life indigestion and bloating attacks would come on me after eating making me so miserable that my meals held little enjoyment knowing how I would suffer afterwards. But what caused my dreadful suffering was the rheumatism which settled in my limbs, back and shoulders crippling me until I could hardly get about. I became dreadfully nervous, and in spite of all I tried I could not find anything to help me. It was so discouraging and I did not know what to do next when I happened onto a friend of mine who had been in very bad condition—but now in apparent good health—and he persuaded me to give this new Gly-Cas a trial as he had done and I too found it wonderful.

"I feel it my duty to let all suffering humanity know of this valuable Gly-Cas — it has no equal," continued Rev. Tibbets. "This new herbal remedy took right hold of my stubborn case, cleansed my entire system of its poisons and I have not felt as well in years as I do now. I relish every bite I eat and nothing gives me any trouble. My nerves are quieted, sleep good and seldom have any pain at all. That dreadful suffering has been relieved that I thought impossible, my head is cleared and I feel as if this new Gly-Cas has actually given me a new lease on life. There can be no doubt now of Gly-Cas' merit."

The Gly-Cas Man is daily meeting crowds of local people at the McCoy Drug Co. No. 6, 108 West Fourth Street, Santa Ana, where he is introducing and explaining the action of this valuable new medical discovery. Gly-Cas, 11 box; 6 boxes, $5, by mail plus $3 box tax. Cash must accompany order.

BEEKEEPERS HOLD ANNUAL FIELD DAY

ANAHEIM, April 20.—More than 80 beekeepers attended the beekeepers' annual field day and demonstration, sponsored by the farm bureau, Saturday afternoon at the Roy Bell apiary on Nutwood road west of Anaheim.

H. J. Crawford of Olive was chairman of the day and introduced several speakers. It was brought out that Orange county ranked ninth in the production of honey last year, having 9100 colonies of bees in the county, producing 947,000 pounds of honey per year or 104 pounds per colony.

Harold Wahlberg, farm adviser, spoke concerning soil conservation and gave figures on the honey production of the county. A. R. Whittier of Riverside stated that indications pointed to a short crop of orange honey this year due to the weather conditions. C. E. Lush spoke concerning marketing of honey and the establishment of prices.

Ross Crane, assistant farm adviser, introduced several 4-H boys of the county who have bee projects.

Police News

An automobile belonging to George Shepard, Wintersburg, reported stolen from Third and Sycamore, Saturday afternoon, was recovered by city police yesterday afternoon at Second and Broadway, in good condition, and returned to the owner.

L. S. Sharp, 2064 Bush street, whose Waltham watch, valued at $15, was stolen during the past week, told Detective Charles Wolford he suspected a 15-year-old youth now confined at Whittier School for Boys, but that he refused to talk about the watch or its disappearance. Officers have been unable to find the watch.

A woman who refused to give her name asked city police to cooperate in finding a young Mexican who, she said, grabbed her by the shoulder at Stafford and Minster streets Saturday night about 7:30 o'clock, and sought to molest her. "I turned and hit him with my purse and he released me and ran toward the Ebell club and disappeared among the bushes," she told police. Officers searched the neighborhood but could not find the man.

An owner was found today for the car which Mrs. H. B. Wright, 1908 South Sycamore street, reported Friday was abandoned near her home. The registration was in the name of Paul Rambo, Acampo, Calif., but records show the car recently purchased by Hattie Austin, 229 West Santa Fe avenue, Fullerton. It had been stolen, officers indicated.

Five boys, three 16 years old and two, 15, from Ontario and Upland, were apprehended about 2 a. m. today by officers P. L. Grouard and Paul Cozad in downtown Santa Ana, and taken to police headquarters for questioning. One of the 15-year-old boys was "very drunk," the officers said. A bottle of wine, which the youths said they bought in Pomona, was held by officers to whom the youths admitted they had stolen gasoline from a truck in Pomona. They carried a piece of hose and fuel can. They were ordered to report to Pomona police, and released.

H. E. Beard, 814 North Garnsey, Santa Ana, paid $8; Rosena Byers, Glendale, $5, and a juvenile Santa Ana boy was certified to juvenile court, after appearance Saturday before City Judge J. G. Mitchell on charges of speeding. A dollar each was paid for illegal parking by Edon Brize, Dr. G. K. Atwell, Ford M. May and C. W. Hill, while $2 each was paid for two similar offenses each, committed by Dwight Wilcox and Walter Coffey.

Because he refused to set up the drinks for two Mexicans who appeared at a restaurant on East Fourth street early yesterday, Richard Castaneda, 902 Logan street, complained today of cuts about the head and headache. He signed complaints against Alfonso Valles, 23, 1016 Logan street and Lupe Calvillo, 20, 902 Logan street, charging the two men with beating him. The two men being booked at county jail today. Calvillo admitted he hit Castaneda over the head with a milk can, police said.

FULLERTON, April 20.—An impressive single ring ceremony was read Friday night by the Rev. Francis E. Hawes uniting Miss Flora McVeigh and Robert Carter in marriage. The Baptist church, where the ceremony was held, was decorated in a profusion of palms, ferns, candles, and white and pastel flowers.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, John McVeigh, wore a pearl white satin wedding gown, cut floor length, with a cowl neck and bell sleeves. Her veil was floor length lace, and orange blossoms were used to hold it in place. Her bouquet was moon shaped, made up of briar cliff roses, lilacs of the valley and ferns.

Attending here were Mrs. Lydia Boyer, who wore green taffeta, floor length cut, and who carried roses and sweet peas, and Miss Sophia Nagy and Miss Rose Nagy of Maywood, dressed respectively, in yellow and pink organza, and carrying corresponding shades of flowers. During the period before the wedding, Miss Florence Lovering, dressed in peach lace, lighted the candles. Mrs. Gladys Ellis, of Yucca, Ariz., and Mrs. Anne Davis, of Tracy, Calif., sisters of the bride, escorted the mothers of the young couple to their places prior to the wedding.

SAYS CHURCH GUILD HOLDS MUST PROTEST BRIDGE PARTY, WAR, LIQUOR FASHION SHOW

FULLERTON, April 20.—"The interests that exploit human life and character, that back war, and the sale of liquor, and condone child labor, are not concerned when ministers just preach, but are instantly concerned when the churches act, and those interests then instantly show their fangs," the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman said Sunday night at the Fullerton Methodist church in a sermon on "Christian Activity."

He said that in most instances where laymen have criticized the Methodist church has taken, and social justice, those laymen generally have done so because of fear of job insecurity.

"In view of these many responses to the battle of the church for justice, the church and its far-seeing members and ministers must build bridges for a new day, and proceed in all fields in a courageous, daring and constructive action," he said. "Always those leaders must be certain that the action taken has the approval of God. The whole gospel of Christ indicates just such action as the Methodist church has taken, and as always when we preach that entire gospel of Christ, we stand the risk of losing our pulpits," he said.

The minister said if justice is accomplished, the church must enter the political, the economic and the business field with the gospel of Christ, and must protect child labor, liquor traffic and war.

HI-Y BOYS TO HOLD ANAHEIM MEET TUESDAY

Santa Ana Hi-Y boys will move toward Anaheim tomorrow evening, when the district convention of Hi-Y clubs is to meet at the Christian church in that city, according to D. H. Tibbals of the Santa Ana "Y." This meeting includes all Hi-Y groups in Orange county, together with those from Long Beach.

The program starts at 8:30 p.m. with a conference of officers, followed at 9:30 o'clock by a dinner and a program of talks and stunts appropriate to the Hi-Y ideals.

Local boys who wish to attend should get in touch with the Santa Ana Y.M.C.A. office at once so as to make sure of their reservations. It is expected that the total attendance from the district will run into large numbers.

One item of special interest is the fact that the annual training conference of Southern California Hi-Y clubs will be held the last of August at Camp Osceola, Orange county's summer camp, and plans for that event will be outlined at Tuesday evening's meeting.

JIMMY FIDLER in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD.—Theater owners who know whereof he speaks. He writes of their astonishment over the landslide business done by the picture, "Love Before Breakfast." They agree the picture is good entertainment, and that Carol Lombard has a sizeable fan following, but even these two facts seem not to account for the standing lines. I believe the secret lies in the novelty of the advertising campaign that accompanied the picture's release. Portraits of Miss Lombard with a gleaming "shiner" were too intriguing to be ignored. When such a beautiful girl pops up with a glorious black eye, who can refrain from ascertaining how and why she got it? It was a clever idea, blacking Carol's eye for advertising portrait. And cleverer still to write the ads with as little printed matter as possible—just the picture of the girl with a shiner and the title.

Other trick campaigns have furnished meaty box office returns. Outstanding was the wide-spread use of a two-word slogan, "Garbo Talks," which accompanied the movie in which the Swedish actress first registered her monotone. The same studio later attempted a similar campaign with the phrase, "Garbo Smiles," but the picture, "The Painted Veil," needed more than a Garbo smile. When Charlie Chaplin's "City Lights" was released, sound movies were the exciting new discovery—so Chaplin's press agent cashed in by advertising, "This is a Silent Picture." Another productive use of "advertising by suggestion" was the billboards featuring sexy portraits of Clara Bow, plus three meaningful words: "The It Girl." The title still clings to Clara.

A new game meeting with favor at informal Hollywood parties is "Banalities." Nothing much to it, but the game intrigues when six or more play. First player starts the fun by offering a "banality" starting with the letter A. Second player must follow with a banality commencing with the letter B. Third, letter C, and so on. Such banalities as "Don't cook anything special; just serve us leftovers" and "Yes, I'll play bridge with you, but I don't play well" and "You are pretty enough to be in the movies" are samples. Gather your friends and try it; the game will give your brain a good work-out.

It makes me unhappy to discourage ambitious young writers, but I must answer the deluge of letters requesting information about selling original stories to the movies. It is next to impossible for an unknown author to crash the studios with an original idea. Manuscripts are returned unopened, so if you have planned to submit a picture plot, save the postage. Most of this information came to me from William C. Lengel. He is the story editor for Columbia Studios, and

LAUNCH DRIVE FOR FUNDS FOR HARBOR FETE

Funds for the Newport Harbor dedication program are being sought in a $5000 drive launched this week by the executive committee in charge of plans for the celebration, May 23 and 24.

A. B. Roussele, treasurer for the committee said that the fund drive was made necessary when the board of supervisors refused financial cooperation in the project.

It has been estimated that the publicity to be derived through the two-day celebration, which will bring representatives of every maritime city on the coast to the harbor, will be worth $75,000 to the community. To complete the program $5000 will be necessary.

Roussele pointed out that it would be disastrous if the community fails to seize this opportunity to tell the world about the harbor.

Launching the financial campaign Roussele and Walter S. Spicer, chairman of the financial committee, each donated $25. Mayor Herman Hilmer and Judge Leonard, were among the first to contribute.

CHURCH OF CHRIST CO-WORKERS CLASS AT BUSINESS MEET

The Co-workers class of the South Santa Ana Church of Christ was entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Green, 2010 South Ross street, last Thursday evening.

President Mable Sherwood presided over a business session, where it was shown that the class had made a gain of 10 per cent in attendance at the Bible school during March; other interesting reports also were made.

After the business session, the program committee provided a "Daft party." The hostess had arranged her home appropriately for the name. She met each arriving guest with an umbrella and escorted them within, where everything appeared to be topsy turvy, even to the assortment of time pieces collected on the mantel.

The guests were in costume, including very young girls in caps and smocks, Simple Simon, kyspey, Frenchman, manicurist, etc. Prizes were awarded.

Special honor was shown Mrs. E. Nichols for her many kindnesses to the class at various times.

Games were played, and later in refreshments at tables with bright paper covers, bearing pictures and sayings.

The Young People's class, returning from a skating party, joined the co-workers for refreshments. On the committee with Mrs. Green were Mrs. Homer Lindley and Mrs. James Smith.

Smoking Camels Assists Digestion and Promotes Well-Being

When people are tired, worried, or nervous, the flow of digestive fluids slows up.

Science now recognizes that smoking Camels has a favorable influence in increasing the flow of these digestive fluids. Thus, there are sound, definite reasons why Camels add to the enjoyment of your meals.

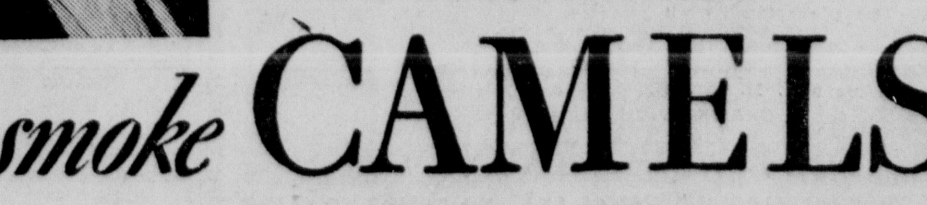

Camels are supremely mild—never get on the nerves or tire your taste. Enjoy Camels as much as you like... for their good cheer and "lift"... for their rare flavor! Camels set you right!

Public Schools Week Program Plans Are Announced

EXPECT CROWD AT WILLARD ON FRIDAY NIGHT

A plan for the local Public Schools Week program of having many school grades represented and most numbers typical of instruction in the schools was noticeable when the committee on arrangements today announced some of the outstanding features of the entertainment to be given Friday evening of this week at Willard auditorium.

Music, vocal and instrumental; drama, athletics, dancing, oratory, a class in assembly—the committee declared today there would be something to appeal to everybody in the audience. It is expected that, as in past years, the gathering will pack the house.

Only one number is from outside Santa Ana schools, this being a Japanese wrestling exhibition sponsored by Garden Grove schools. The team that will appear here recently went into the finals in a tournament of wrestling by teams from all over the state, proving itself one of the best Japanese wrestling teams in California.

No Speeches

There will be no speeches on the program except one prize oration to be delivered by a high school student. This and all other numbers, the committee announced, will be short, every effort being made to arrange an entertainment that will move fast and without waits between events. Most of these are limited to 10 minutes or less, only two or three of the 12 planned being permitted over 10 minutes. One of the longest will be a one-act play presented by the drama class of the junior college under direction of Ernest Crozier Phillips.

A novelty number not known to even the program committee will be the contribution from Julia La-throp junior high school while a chorus of mixed voices and a tap-dancing number will represent Willard.

Friday evening's entertainment will be free to all and the public is urged to attend, the purpose of Public Schools Week, an annual event sponsored by the Masonic fraternity of California, being to encourage all possible interest in our public schools.

In Santa Ana the entertainment given Friday evening will usher in Public Schools week which is being observed over California during the school week beginning April 27.

Tell How To Avoid Hurts To Animals

By CHARLES D. OCRAIN
President Orange County Humane Society

This being "Be Kind to Animals Anniversary," here are some suggestions offered by the S.P.C.A., which, if followed, will materially reduce the number of casualties to animals along the highways:

Never cut in front of a horse that is in motion and force him to slow up and stop suddenly. The weight of his load will ordinarily carry him forward at least a few feet, and may cause a mishap.

Horses should be passed with care on the highways. Even veteran old cart horses sometimes take fright at a swiftly moving automobile and may veer enough to one side to jeopardize other cars.

Pass Herds Slowly

Herds of sheep and cattle should also be passed slowly. Remember the horn will not blow them completely out of the way. Then, too, there are usually one or more nervous members of the herd that may cause a general stampede that will result in many injuries.

Small animals are often frightened to a standstill at the sound of a horn or a glare of auto light. Do not bewilder them with the warning horn, but ease off and give them a little more time to get themselves straightened out. The delay of a moment or two means little on the average trip, and may prevent a great deal of suffering.

The Title of Your Story

Nothing is more important from a selling angle than a good title. The title is your sales introduction to the editor. If you have a good title, you have given your "salesman" a good suit and hat, you've polished his shoes, and sent him to do battle for you with a broad smile. If the title appeals to the editor, if it arouses his curiosity or interest, he's going to read enough to know whether or not the story is worth while. He MIGHT read it anyway; it's a cinch he will if you have caught his attention with your title.

A title should tell enough—but not too much. It should intrigue but not mislead. It is a good idea to use a verb in a title. This brings action into it, and action in the title suggests action in the story. Titles should have a pleasing sound. They should read well. Read your titles aloud. Check them for sound and rhythm. True, the reader isn't likely to read the title or story aloud, but if it has a good sound and rhythm, he will catch these things without being conscious of doing it.

"This story reads well," this title is keen," he is likely to say. Which will mean you have injected pleasing sound and rhythm into your offering.

The one thing above all others to avoid in titling a story is triteness. If the title you select comes too easy, you'd better check it carefully; you've probably chosen something trite, or something you have seen before.

Don't Overstrain

Don't overstrain yourself trying to get a unique title. Titles can be too clever. It's poor policy to give your story a name that isn't easily understood, or that doesn't actually emphasize some point in your story.

If you have a hard time naming your stories, read them aloud, keeping your mind fixed on words or phrases that have a special significance. Sometimes a title will pop right out at you—and it will be a good one.

A playwright friend of mine wrote a play of South America, with an egotistical half-breed man lead. She had no title—and it seemed as if she would never find one. She read the script slowly, her ear tuned to every phrase, when suddenly she came to one of the half-breed's speeches: "God made only one man." The title fairly leapt out at her, and so the play became "GOD MADE ONLY ONE MAN"—a title that got her instant attention in a Hollywood

ORANGE GIRL DR. CARL PAUL WED IN CHURCH

ORANGE, April 20.—Choosing the vesper hour for her wedding, Miss Esther L. Abplanalp, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Abplanalp, was married at St. John's Lutheran church yesterday to Dr. Carl J. Paul, of Ventura, the service being conducted by the pastor of the church, the Rev. A. C. Bode, who was assisted by the Rev. C. Bernier, of Los Angeles.

The bride was very lovely in a floor length white satin gown made with a train, her long veil following the lines of her gown and held in place with a satin halo. She carried a white prayer book, orchids and lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Charles Zimmerman was matron of honor and other attendants were Mrs. George Harvey, of Los Angeles, and Miss Henrietta Paul, sister of the bridegroom. The trio were in similar frocks of rose pink tulle with matching mouseline hats and old fashioned nosegays of pink sweetpeas and ranunculus.

Fred W. Paul, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Frederick Schroeder and George Harvey. Barbara Ann Muench attired as the other attendants, was flower girl.

The church was decorated with pink and white stocks and the altar was lighted with many white candles. Preceding the ceremony a program of organ music was given by William Barmann and Dr. Harold Galbraith, of Los Angeles, sang "O Perfect Love" by Bloomfield, and "Holy Spirit, Breath of Life" by Galbraith. Mendelssohn's Wedding March was played as the processional and Lohengrin's Wedding March as the recessional.

A reception followed at the Walker Memorial hall, where a pink and white motif was stressed in appointments for tables lighted with pink tapers. Pink sweetpeas and angel's breath were used in bouquets in white vases and the white autops held sprays of lilies of the valley. A program of talks and vocal numbers was given.

The bride is a graduate of the St. John's parochial school, the Orange Union High school and finished the course in nursing at the Los Angeles General hospital. The bridegroom is a graduate of Stanford and the University of Southern California and is now staff surgeon at the Ventura County hospital. He is a member of Phi Rho Sigma fraternity.

Following a honeymoon trip north the young couple will establish their home at Ventura. For traveling the bride chose a gray tailored suit with gray accessories and an orchid corsage.

THE TWYMITES

Story by HAL COCHRAN Art by GEORGE SCARBO

"Now that the whole bunch is aboard, I'll hop on, too," the old man roared. "We're heading for some gold fields and I hope we have some luck."

"We must stick to our little task. That's all I'm really going to ask. When anyone's prospecting, all they need is lots of pluck."

"Well, don't you worry one wee bit," said Scouty. "We can stick to it. Course Duncy may fall asleep. That's one of his best stunts."

"That is the reason why he came to have his very funny name. Instead of being sensible, he really is a dunce."

"Oh, yeah?" Duncy loudly cried. "Keep still, and let's enjoy this ride." And then fair Duncy yelled, "Giddap!" and over the ground they flew.

The little bear proved very strong, by pulling all the bunch along. Said Coppy, "He is doing better than I thought he'd do."

They rode on for a mile or so, and then their old friend shouted "Whoa! I think this is a good spot. We will try for gold right here."

"Hop out, tots, and unload this cart. Now, every Tiny do his part. There's no one 'round to bother us, so there is naught to fear."

"I've brought along a little tent and now, before your strength is spent, please put it up and make it safe, so you can sleep within."

"Why, I have put up tents before, and I can do the trick once more. It really isn't very hard," said Windy, with a grin.

The others watched him work away and soon he heard kind Goldy say, "Why, you're a master, Windy. Everything is quite all right."

"There'll be no cause to fume and fuss, cause there is room for all of us. Oh, won't it be a lot of fun to sleep in it tonight!" (Copyright, 1936, NEA Service, Inc.)

(The Tines meet a very funny man in the next story.)

News Of Orange County Communities

Changes Seen When New Councilmen Take Office

BOARDS MEET THIS EVENING TO REORGANIZE

City councils in all municipalities, with the exception of Santa Ana, will meet tonight, seat new members and reorganize. In four of the communities, Laguna Beach, Orange, Fullerton and Newport Beach, where the mayors were defeated for re-election, speculation is rife as to who will be named the nominal head of the city governments.

Reorganization of the councils in some communities will have a more far reaching effect than just the naming of a mayor and reappointment of councilmen, whose terms expired this year, were unopposed for re-election. The same condition prevailed in Brea and La Habra, the incumbents, all of whom were opposed for re-election, were returned to office.

"I don't know why not. I think you'd make a wonderful father."

He was silent a moment, his eyes directly on hers. "Do you really mean that, Toby?"

"I certainly do. But where is she, and when am I going to see her? I'm terribly excited about all this. Did you say I know her?"

"Yes, you know her. Very well. I'll tell you her name a little later. You've heard my life story, Toby—or most of it. The rest can be told in a few words. Since there seemed to be nothing else to do, I went to work to make money. The Hilmyer Soap Company was a small concern when my father owned it; I've made it bigger.

"But we've been talking about my affairs all evening. Now won't you tell me about yourself?"

She smiled. "There's nothing to tell. You know that I used to live with my aunt in Jackson Heights. When she died I had to leave school and start earning a living."

"I don't know much about them," Toby said soberly. "I wish I did. Aunt Gen never seemed to want to talk about them. I've wondered so many times what my mother was like and wished that I knew someone who used to know her. It's strange, isn't it, her name was Mary, too. It was a pretty name, I think—Mary Fern."

"A very pretty name," Hilmyer

BREA, April 20.—Mrs. Agnes Campbell and Mrs. J. A. Lynch, the latter of Fullerton, complimented Mrs. A. F. Laing, wife of the retiring minister of the Nazarene church, at a luncheon given recently at the Campbell home on South Madrona. Spring flowers carried out a general color scheme of yellow and green.

Guests present in addition to the honoree were Mrs. A. B. Howie, Mrs. C. H. Chansler, Mrs. C. B. Barton, Mrs. Emma Classen, Mrs. J. W. Stives, Mrs. Fred Woodward, Mrs. Perry Chansler, Mrs. Lee Calderwood, Mrs. Leonard Phillips, Mrs. Charles Robinson, Mrs. Earl Pendleton, Mrs. Ross, Mrs. Ed Carter, Mrs. Jennie Swope and Miss Mae Chansler.

The Rev. and Mrs. Laing are retiring from leadership in the church with the coming of the new pastor, the Rev. Ray Stevens, on May 1.

Card Party Held By Relief Corps

WESTMINSTER, April 20.—Both bridge and "500" entertained at the public card party given Friday evening by the Midway City Woman's Relief Corps. Mrs. Alma Best had high for women in bridge and Don Bernitter, high for men; Mrs. Pat Murphy low for women and C. C. Murly low for men. High score in "500" for women went to Mrs. Frankie Van Uden and for men to Pat Murphy; low to Mrs. Eunice Miller and John Schrader. The door prize went to Mrs. Pat Murphy.

Refreshments of sandwiches and coffee were served by the hostess committee, Mrs. Lillie Stanley, Mrs. C. C. Murly and Mrs. Carson.

INSTALLATION CONDUCTED BY MESA LEAGUE

COSTA MESA, April 20.—Hugh Davis was inducted into the presidency of the Community church Epworth league last night, with the Rev. W. I. Lowe in charge. Davis succeeded himself to that position. Other members of the league cabinet accepted into their respective offices were Miss Thelma Allen, first vice president; Miss Betty Lamberton, second vice president; Miss Helen Davis, third vice president, and Miss Grace Daughenbaugh and John Daughenbaugh, fourth vice presidents.

Other offices filled were corresponding secretary, David Phoenix; treasurer, Jack Dodge; recording secretary, Earl Burdick; director of music, Miss Avenell Nelson; pianist, Miss Marion Nelson; publicity director, Richard Owen; and senior counselors, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Eastman.

Preceding the installation ceremony, the Rev. Mr. Lowe preached a sermon on the topic, "The Bramble Bush King." Mrs. Veda Thompson was at the organ for congregational singing.

The pastor announced that he will preach on the subject, "A Man God Needs," at the morning worship services next Sunday, and on the theme, "The Mind of Christ," at the evening services for that day.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
TOBY RYAN, 19, is a photographic model, posing for photographs to be used in advertisements. Unknown at first, she is chosen as "The Hilmyer Soap Girl."

Toby shares an apartment with HARRIET HOLM, another model, engaged to marry CLYDE SABIN, whom Toby distrusts.

Wealthy TIM JAMIESON showers Toby with attentions for a time and then seems to forget her. Toby's oldest friend is BILL BRANDT, advertising salesman. She is fond of Bill but has never thought of him romantically.

JAY HILLIER, president of the Hilmyer Soap Company, sees Toby posing for some photographs. He takes her to dinner and later she has frequent engagements with him.

Clyde Sabin marries a wealthy widow, and Harriet, heart-broken, attempts suicide. She recovers and later goes to the country for a rest.

Toby goes to dinner with Hilmyer and he tells her about his youthful marriage, his wife's death, and his recent discovery that he has a daughter.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXV
TOBY'S eyes searched Hilmyer's.

"You mean," she said, "that it's some one I know? She's your daughter, and you've only just found out about it? She doesn't know it, either?"

"No," Hilmyer said, "she doesn't know it. I suppose it will be a shock to her." He smiled. "How do you suppose she's going to take it? What do you think of me as a father, anyhow? Think I'll make the grade?"

"I don't know why not. I think you'd make a wonderful father."

He was silent a moment, his eyes directly on hers. "Do you really mean that, Toby?"

"I certainly do. But where is she, and when am I going to see her? I'm terribly excited about all this. Did you say I know her?"

"Yes, you know her. Very well. I'll tell you her name a little later. You've heard my life story, Toby—or most of it. The rest can be told in a few words. Since there seemed to be nothing else to do, I went to work to make money. The Hilmyer Soap Company was a small concern when my father owned it; I've made it bigger.

"But we've been talking about my affairs all evening. Now won't you tell me about yourself?"

She smiled. "There's nothing to tell. You know that I used to live with my aunt in Jackson Heights. When she died I had to leave school and start earning a living."

"I don't know much about them," Toby said soberly. "I wish I did. Aunt Gen never seemed to want to talk about them. I've wondered so many times what my mother was like and wished that I knew someone who used to know her. It's strange, isn't it, her name was Mary, too. It was a pretty name, I think—Mary Fern."

"A very pretty name," Hilmyer

agreed. "And what about your father?"

"All I know about him is that he was Aunt Gen's brother. My father and mother both died when I was so small I don't remember anything about them at all. I have a picture of my mother, though. It's in a locket."

"A picture?" Hilmyer asked. From a pocket he took an old-fashioned, yellow gold watch and snapped the case open. He held it toward Toby. "Was the picture," he said, "like this?"

"Why—why—!" She stared up at him. "That's my mother's picture," she exclaimed. "Where did you get it?"

Her hand lay on the table. Hilmyer covered it with his own. "She gave it to me," he said gently. "Toby, my dear, your aunt evidently didn't want you to know the truth about your parents. She changed the story. Don't you understand what I've been trying all evening to tell you? You're the daughter I've found, Toby. You!"

"I'm—I'm your daughter?"

"Yes, Toby. I've had detectives at work for weeks—ever since I first suspected the truth. They're pieced together the whole story; all the legal documents are in my office. Toby, you said a while ago that you wouldn't mind having me for a father. Do you still mean it?"

She could not speak—not for a few moments. She was smiling, yet her eyes were filled with tears. "My father," she said, almost in a whisper. "My own, real father—I—"

Hilmyer drew out a handkerchief and sneezed. His eyes, too, were suddenly suspiciously moist.

"And my Toby," he added. "But how did you know? How did you ever find out? Oh, I want to know all about it—"

SHE had to hear the whole story, then, from the beginning. And the beginning was the day weeks before when a dozen photographs were laid on Jay Hilmyer's desk—photographs of models from whom the "Hilmyer Soap Girl" was to be selected.

"It wasn't your photograph—not at first—that decided the question," he told her. "It was your name. I was curious about a girl whose name was Toby. You see, it happened to be my name. Jay T. Hilmyer. The T. is for Tobias and it was my grandfather's name. I was 'Toby' as a boy and that is what your mother called me. Later when I went into business I thought Jay was more dignified so I took to using it instead. It's the name I've used for

CIVILIZATION OWES ALL TO MAN'S COURAGE

A steel worker lost his footing while working on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay bridge the other day, and plunged 160 feet to his death. It was the 19th fatality recorded during construction of the bridge.

Away back in the days of the ancient Romans it was the custom to start every big construction job with a human sacrifice. A slave would be killed and his body sealed into a crypt beneath the cornerstone. Every great building, bridge, aqueduct, or monument was thus, in a way, a sort of memorial to a nameless person who had given his life that the job might be finished.

We do the same sort of thing nowadays, but we don't do it intentionally.

It would be hard to find a record of any large-scale construction job in this country which has been carried through without taking the life of some workman. This isn't due to carelessness or slackness on the part of the engineers and foremen; construction work is just naturally dangerous, and the mere law of averages decrees that it has to take a life every so often.

This is worth remembering. We like to call ourselves the greatest builders since the days of the Caesars, and we probably deserve the title; but we should never forget the price that has to be paid for this achievement by the unsung workers who take danger as a part of the job.

These men are our national heroes, in a very real sense. Whenever there is a hard, dangerous, exacting job to be done, they come swaggering up, in overalls and leather gloves, and take it on.

Whether we are bridging San Francisco Bay or putting a railroad across the Florida Keys or damming a western river or thrusting a 50-story skyscraper toward the clouds, we can always find men to accept the risks and put over the job.

Think what we owe to them! They took our square-riggers around Cape Horn; they manned the hard-case ranks of the great lumber industry; they built our cities and harnessed our streams and mined our minerals; they smelted our ores and herded our cattle and established our fisheries—ignoring danger and hardship, rolling up a casualty list that would make the battle of Gettysburg look like a summer picnic, and doing it all without benefit of brass bands, medals, or newspaper photographers.

The ordinary human animal, in other words, is a pretty plucky sort of a chap. It is not only on the battlefield that he proves his mettle. That, perhaps, is the least of his achievements. No job is too tough for him, no danger too great.

Beyond all our inventive genius, our organizing skill, and our gift for planning, we owe our material progress to the dauntless courage of the man in overalls.

ROOSEVELT'S ADVISOR, MOLEY, ON HIS TAX PLAN

The March 28th issue of "Today's Magazine," edited by Raymond Moley, the former personal advisor of President Roosevelt and which magazine is regarded as the mouthpiece of the administration, has the following to say under the heading of "The Tax Plan vs. the New Deal":

"The longer the Treasury's surplus tax plan is exposed to public view the more clearly do its defects appear. It is to be hoped that the responsible committees of Congress will, through a succession of amendments, offer the mercy of decent burial for this child of fantasy. Already from behind the closed doors of the House committee the pick and shovel can be heard."

"I am opposed to the Treasury's tax plan because it is wholly antipathetic to the fundamental objectives of this Administration as they have been defined to the people of the country. The New Deal was sold to the people in 1932 and 1934 as a means of achieving security and stability. It promised that every human effort would be made to prevent future booms and depressions. It hoped to increase the steadiness of the employment of labor. It stood for stable values of stocks and bonds, for curbing the excesses of stock speculation. It dedicated itself to the rebuilding of credit, the rehabilitation of industry and the revival of that business enterprise which was to abolish unemployment. It asserted that it was dedicated to the encouragement of smaller business enterprise, of free and healthy competition. These are the objectives which the Treasury's tax scheme, if it prevails in anything like its original form, will certainly defeat and destroy."

"The reasons why this is true are legion, but it is sufficient to state the more significant of them briefly."

"1. The scheme will accentuate booms and deepen depressions. It ought to be obvious that if corporations disperse larger dividends in good years and have nothing left with which to pay dividends or employ labor in bad times, the swings of the business cycle will be exaggerated."

"2. It will make the workman's job more precarious. Employment will fluctuate not only in the great swings from booms to depressions, but in the minor variations of prosperity that occur seasonally. The common practice now is to use slack seasons of the year to manufacture goods for future sale, financing the operation out of surplus. If a corporation has no surplus, it can do this only with borrowed money, which is too expensive a procedure to be practical in competition with a rival whose interest costs are zero."

"3. It will intensify the fluctuations of the stock and bond prices, thus affecting the collateral behind loans, impairing the foundations of banks and insurance companies, and giving increased opportunities to the speculator—the very fellow who was exoriated in the earlier days of the New Deal. To what point would A. T. & T. have risen, for example, if it had been forced to disperse all its earnings in dividends during the fat years? To what point would it have dropped in recent years when it was maintaining dividends out of surplus?

"4. It will put a heavy handicap on the process of rebuilding credit. Enterprises which have been losing money for some years, depleting their reserves to the point where they have been compelled to borrow heavily, ought now to be given a chance to accumulate a hump of fat again in anticipation of the next hard winter. But this practice seems to be taboo in the philosophy behind this plan."

"5. What of the little businesses that were so solicitously considered last summer when the proposal was made to tax corporations in accordance with their size? What of the theory under which that equally unsound proposal was made to break up big corporations and replace them with small ones? That was June in the Treasury. Now, in March, the Treasury proposes that the larger corporations of the country be given an advantage over their smaller competitors in proportion to the size of their present surpluses. One of the reasons why only a faint outcry has come from business in response to the Treasury's tax proposal is that many large corporations view it with equanimity. They see clearly that under such a plan the present hierarchy of industry would be substantially frozen into a permanent mold—the big will stay big and the little will stay little, or disappear. Being allowed no reserves, the small fellow must henceforth always borrow, which imposes upon him a heavy competitive handicap as against the big corporation that already has a surplus set aside for emergencies."

"6. What of the golden opportunity for new businesses of which we have heard so much? New enterprises which must run in the red for a few years before turning the corner will be beaten before they begin. It would be a hardy investor indeed who would venture his money in an enterprise which had no opportunity to acquire the very essentials of permanent corporate health."

"7. Finally, a tax plan that proposes to levy an impost of 33 1/3 per cent on earnings set aside to meet debts when they fall due is, to say the least, a fantastic idea. Most bond indentures and most bank loans provide that debt service must be made before dividends. Specific information is not available, but it may be assumed that a prudent lending agency like the RFC must itself have imposed such conditions. Now the Treasury proposes to tax prohibitively the payment of debts."

BUSINESS' CONTRIBUTION

The United States Daily, on its front page, has a very graphic description of two piles of money. They represent the amount of money paid out by businesses, in excess of receipts, for the years 1930 to 1934 inclusive. Business is poorer by advancing $26,500,000,000 in order to try to give employment and improving living conditions. The Federal Government paid out $12,500,000,000 during the same years.

If the total volume of losses and debts had only put the people back to work and improved their living conditions, it would not be so pitiful. To have, however, ten to twelve million people still unemployed, with all this loss and waste, would indicate that we are not on the right track. It would indicate that we cannot have more by producing less.

The 1936 Season Gets Started

Day By Day In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1935)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Politics has become a thorn in the side of the relief administration, but the responsibility for the abuses that have grown up is put squarely on the shoulders of the over-zealous if not unscrupulous local politicians.

The cry being raised by Republicans is that relief be turned back to the states to be answered by Harry Hopkins with the statement that this would merely intensify political influence. And it requires no stretch of the imagination to realize that Mr. Hopkins is right on that point if state relief were administered in the same way that federal relief is handled.

Mr. Hopkins insists he will do everything he can to eliminate politics from relief, and judging by his record in fighting Democratic as well as Republican misdeeds in various states, he can be depended upon to follow out conscientiously the program of non-partisanship which he has outlined.

But Mr. Hopkins has been beaten before he started. It is the political system which Mr. Hopkins is up against, and the moment the members of the United States senate help in the naming of state administrators under the WPA—they all have to be confirmed by the senate when nominated—that day relief went headlong into politics and has been there ever since.

Mr. Hopkins has said publicly that he believes persons who are friendly to the New Deal policies should be appointed instead of those who are opponents. This, however, is a political concept.

As a matter of fact, the relief job should have been handled by persons who are not particularly concerned about the policies of the federal administration as such but who are efficient in performing the tasks allotted to them.

Throughout the United States, relief is being administered by organizations set up by Washington and with key men in them who are directly or indirectly related to the political organizations of the senators who are instrumental in naming them. This encourages the local political bosses to assert themselves and to claim political influence which they may not really possess.

The alternative of the present system is not state administration but a combination of federal and state effort. The federal government, by its grant of funds, was in a position to insist upon standards. It could have required the appointment by persons who had a high standing in the community and who were known as public-spirited citizens unreachably by political currents.

Such a commission in every state of the union would have prevented the development of political machines in the relief organizations, and unless a governor appointed a high grade commission, the federal government could have balked at ranting aid.

Public opinion in each state then would have held each governor responsible and similarly each mayor of every city. As it is today, the local administrators are under pressure for increases in funds for WPA projects. The local interests that are selfishly interested in how WPA funds are spent exercise influence through political channels, and, since the key men are themselves part of the political system, the federal government is loaded with more and more expense.

Relief costs are going up. This is defended on the ground that the unemployed people have never really been given adequate relief. This may be true, but it is also apparent that efforts to increase the total number in jobs in private industry have been woefully inadequate. The statistics show that there are still about 10,000,000 persons unemployed.

The WPA's job is relief and not economic readjustment. Why has re-employment been retarded? What policies of the New Deal have been an impediment to increased employment? What would happen if some of the federal restrictions on industrial operations were removed? These are questions which are going to be asked more and more as relief itself becomes entangled in politics and higher and higher expense. For it is insisted on every side that WPA is temporary and that direct relief is out of the question and that permanent relief must not be assumed as inevitable. An attack on the causes of continued unemployment is really the key to the relief problem.

HERE AND THERE

To make "chunu," a powder used for soup, Peruvian Indians soak potatoes in water and freeze them. Then, each morning, they dance barefoot upon the "spuds." In several days, the potatoes become dehydrated and hard as stone. They then are beaten into powder.

Although the distance from Spitzbergen to the North Pole is about 800 miles, Lieutenant Bandahl, a German, believed that it was possible to travel over the icy wastes by means of a suspension railway. After his first plan failed, he tried to reach the pole on a raft.

Beekkeeping has become a growing and remunerative industry in Manitoba and other prairie provinces of Canada, according to the Canadian department of commerce.

In Chulaela, watermelons are produced for their water. The Pahu, a large clam of the South Seas, can clamp and hold a human prisoner until death.

An epitaph in an Enosburg (Vt.) cemetery reads: "In memory of Anna Hopewell. Here lies the body of our Anna, done to death by a banana; it wasn't the fruit that laid her low, but the skin of the thing that made her go."

In Ecuador and Colombia, cheese balls and chocolate form the basis of most midnight snacks. A ball of hard white cheese is broken into a cup of chocolate, made from hot water and a cocoa sugar ball, and the combination is eaten with a spoon.

Today in school Miss Kitty said, "Now before we start the arithmetic period I want to say a few timely words to the class about Be Kind to Animals Week, which starts today. Now naturally this doesn't mean we shouldn't always be kind to animals, many of which are man's best friends and faithful servants, such as the dog and the horse and the barnyard animals. Be Kind to Animals Week is simply to remind us that all living creatures have certain human qualities, in other words, they suffer if they are abused and mistreated just the same as we would suffer ourselves. So I want you all to make a special effort to be kind to animals this week so you will get into the habit of being kind to them every single day of the year. Now if there are no questions we will proceed to arithmetic, she said."

Us fellows quick making slines to each other to hurry up and ask questions, Puds Sinkins starting by waving his hand and saying, "If animals expect us to be kind to them, why ain't they kind to each other instead of eating each other like foxes and geese and chasing each other up trees like dogs and cats?"

Because they don't know any better but we do, any other questions? Miss Kitty said.

Wich Raymin Levy waved his hand saying, "How about if a lion attacked you in the jungles, should you wait time being kind to him before you shot him in self defense?"

That would be a very exceptional case I am sure, Miss Kitty said. Meaning it probably wouldn't happen, and I waved my hand saying, "How about insects? If you got too kind to insects such as ants and flies and mosquitoes they might take advantage of your kindness and make your life miserable, I said."

Insects are not animals and we'll now go on to arithmetic, Miss Kitty said.

Wich we did feeling against it.

For many years the Register has been the freshest companion in four or five hundred of our homes, we have been taking its statements as truths, and we have believed it to be our friend. Needless to say, your long editorial favoring the locating of the proposed prison farm here in our community will cause a severe test of that faith. We hope that we are right in presuming that you have not been fully informed of the true situation.

Believing as we do that the business men and others of the county seat have an opportunity to help build a united and better community, where joy and peace with prosperity for all could be, we can not think you have expressed the mind of Santa Ana on this matter. Please be reminded that 500 of our people have protested to the prison board, and that seven, (but not eleven, as the Register states Friday) members of the Costa Mesa Chamber of Commerce board of directors, who at first expressed themselves in favor of the project, have stated in the Costa Mesa Herald by its president, "Members of the Chamber have no desire to bring any existing antagonistic to the majority of our people." Those men are looking for anything that would be good for business, the community and county, and at first thought no doubt believed that the project would be for the common good. They still no doubt believe that temporarily it would have been profitable to us, but looking down into the future, it is different.

Having lived in California for over 27 years, I am amused when I remember how little I knew about California for the first several months, so different from the old home state, but today I am more for California than for any native state and expect to live here from now on unless this

Your editorial on the book censorship bill so pleased and aroused me that I wrote to you for information about it. I want to write our representative and senator to vote it down. If you will kindly let me know the number of the bill I shall be grateful. Once again let me compliment you on your stand. Your point of view is well taken that the point of view of the most ignorant community should not be enforced on the most intelligent. Furthermore, if the cases could be carried to the local courts, there would be far more chance of wholesale Bowdlerization. I should expect to see the Bible and Shakespeare and Chaucer put on the federal index expurgatorius.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

AN OLD DOCTOR TO THE NEW POLITICIANS

To the scholar the name Galen means the supreme point in Greek medicine.

Around Galen were doctors who thought of diseases as separate and distinct entities that had no particular relation to anything.

Galen was among the first scholars of medicine to think of the patient as a whole.

"What Galen combated," says a commentator, "was the tendency to reduce medicine to the science of finding a label for each patient, and then treating not the patient, but the label."

These wise words from an old doctor from ancient Greece might well be pondered by the new politicians of modern America.

Vituperation and name-calling promises to take the place of sober and responsible discussion of policies in American politics.

It is enough, it seems, to find a label for anyone in political life—reactionary, radical, utopian, dreamer, servant of selfish greed, and so on.

Thereafter we can attack the label, not the man's policies.

Labels are necessary. There are reactionaries. There are radicals. There are irresponsible utopians and dreamers. There are servants of selfish greed. And it is right to call a spade a spade when individual leaders answer to these descriptive labels.

It is not honest labeling that is to be feared.

It is the increasing tendency of political leaders to damn anybody and everybody in opposition as reactionaries or revolutionary that is dangerous.

Unless this technique is forewarned, the 1936 campaign will bring no enlightenment to the millions.

OUR CHILDREN

AMERICAN IDEALS

A lawyer friend of mine is discouraged about the ideals of America. Like all specialists he sees the world in his work. He has to do with people who have broken the law, who have lost their ideals, and he begins to feel that America has lost her soul. Most of us have to confess we have felt like that before now. If we are wise we shake off the notion and prove the vitality of the American ideal as soon as we can collect our thoughts.

While he was talking my memory went back to the time when I was a little boy, living in one of the foreign "colonies" of New York. It is common nowadays to say that foreigners who came to us by thousands have diluted the American ideals to the vanishing point. It is not true. My memory proves it otherwise.

One afternoon Solly and I had gone to class for religious instructions, along with a lot of others. Solly got a certificate of merit for reciting the maximum number of verses, and answering the catechism perfectly. It was a beautiful certificate, lettered in gold and red and set forth that Solly had achieved merit by study of the scriptures. We were admiring it when Rusty, the block meanie, snatched it and ran off hooting. Solly, with me close at his heel, ran home and told his mother.

"And you let him?" said she coldly. "If you are any son of mine you'll find him wherever he is and take it from him and give him the worth of it into the bargain," and she turned her back squarely upon us.

Now Rusty was expert at his game, and Solly, though big and strong, was peace-loving. Slowly he went down the steps to the street, but once there the light of battle rose in his eyes. He headed for Rusty's headquarters, took him by surprise, gave him a black eye, took the now dirty and crumpled certificate from him, and returned it to his mother with it.

"There now," said she, wiping the flour from her hands, "that's something like. Never let the dog go with your home. Mind you, I'm not telling you children to fight, but I'm trying to make you feel up to fighting with those that would belittle the things you stand for. When you are right stick up for it. Fight if you have to and make the wrongdoer run for his life. That's the only way you can keep above the mud."

"That's a fine certificate, Solly, and we'll frame it and keep it just to look at. I can iron out the creases and it will have God's blessing just the same as if it was now."

The American ideals are common, and, I believe, rightly supposed to be those of the Pilgrim Fathers who feared God and no body else. These ideals they upheld at the end of their muskets when they had to. They were honorable, upright, dutiful men and women who went about their daily occupations as men and women do today. They had their ideals to support and from which to get their every day among the people who go and come about the neighborhood. I see them instructing their children as Solly's mother instructed us that day, "Stick up for what you think is right and fight for it if you have to."

There is a vitality in American ideals that defy hard times. They were born in hard times. They have been preserved by all those who, coming from other lands, have founded families here. They will live even if we have to fight to maintain them occasionally.
